DOCKET NUMBER

v.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, Agency.

DATE: June 7, 2023

Ahmad Peterson, Lady Lake, Florida, pro se.

James Sellars, Washington, D.C., for the agency.

Raymond A. Limon, Member

FINAL ORDER

¶1 The appellant has filed a petition for review of the initial decision, which denied his request for corrective action under the Veterans Employment Opportunities Act of 1998 (VEOA). Generally, we grant petitions such as this one only in the following circumstances: the initial decision contains erroneous findings of material fact; the initial decision is based on an erroneous

<sup>1</sup> A nonprecedential order is one that the Board has determined does not add significantly to the body of MSPB case law. Parties may cite nonprecedential orders, but such orders have no precedential value; the Board and administrative judges are not required to follow or distinguish them in any future decisions. In contrast, a precedential decision issued as an Opinion and Order has been identified by the Board as significantly contributing to the Board's case law. See 5 C.F.R. § 1201.117\(c\).

interpretation of statute or regulation or the erroneous application of the law to the facts of the case; the administrative judge's rulings during either the course of the appeal or the initial decision were not consistent with required procedures or involved an abuse of discretion, and the resulting error affected the outcome of the case; or new and material evidence or legal argument is available that, despite the petitioner's due diligence, was not available when the record closed. Title 5 of the Code of Federal Regulations, section 1201.115 (5 C.F.R. § 1201.115). After fully considering the filings in this appeal, we conclude that the petitioner has not established any basis under section 1201.115 for granting the petition for review. Therefore, we DENY the petition for review. We also VACATE the initial decision and DENY the appellant's request for corrective action.

¶2 The agency advertised for a Correctional Officer position at the Bureau of Prisons (BOP) in Coleman, Florida, under vacancy announcement number COA-2016-0034. The vacancy was open to current BOP employees and to certain categories of Department of Justice employees not relevant here; the position was to be filled via merit promotion procedures. Initial Appeal File (IAF), Tab 5 at 25. The appellant was at that time a Correctional Officer with the BOP in Coleman, the same location as the vacant position. IAF, Tab 4 at 14. He applied, but the agency found him ineligible for consideration. Id. at 47-48. After exhausting his administrative remedies, IAF, Tab 1 at 7-8, Tab 4 at 45, the appellant filed this appeal. In an initial decision issued on the written record, the administrative judge found that the appellant did not show that the agency violated a statute or regulation pertaining to veterans' preference. IAF, Tab 15, Initial Decision at 2, 6.

¶3 The appellant petitions for review of the initial decision. Petition for Review (PFR) File, Tab 1. The agency responds in opposition to the petition for review, and the appellant replies to the agency's response. PFR File, Tabs 3-4.

¶4 The vacancy announcement was open to internal candidates only; the agency was not obligated to consider applicants who applied pursuant to special hiring authorities, such as the one applicable to 30% or more disabled veterans. When the appellant submitted his application, he completed the section for 30% or more disabled veterans. IAF, Tab 4 at 19-20. Based on that, the agency determined that he was ineligible for consideration. Yet, it was obvious from his application that the appellant was an internal candidate who worked as a Correctional Officer for BOP in Coleman, Florida. Id. at 23, 25, 33. An applicant who seeks a veterans' preference must provide the agency with sufficient proof of his entitlement to the preference. Russell v. Department of Health and Human Services, 117 M.S.P.R. 341, ¶ 11 (2012). However, the agency may not deprive the applicant of his rights merely because he makes a minor mistake in submitting his application, at least when the agency has enough information to afford him his rights anyway. Id. The agency here did exactly that, despite the fact that it had enough information to know that he was an internal candidate. Therefore, we find that the agency denied the appellant the right to compete.

¶5 VEOA, though, only extends its protection to applicants applying under merit promotion procedures when “the agency making the announcement will accept applications from individuals outside its own workforce.” 5 U.S.C. § 3304\(f\). Here, the agency did not accept applications from individuals outside its own workforce. Therefore, while it is clear that the agency erred to the appellant's detriment, VEOA does not provide a remedy for the error, and the Board lacks authority in statute or regulation to order any relief.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> The appellant has filed a motion for leave to file an additional pleading in which he contends that he has newly acquired evidence that supports his claim. PFR File, Tab 8. Because the Board lacks the authority to order any relief in this appeal, the appellant's newly acquired evidence cannot have any impact on the outcome of this case. We therefore DENY his motion.

NOTICE OF APPEAL RIGHTS<sup>3</sup>

You may obtain review of this final decision. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(a)(1). By statute, the nature of your claims determines the time limit for seeking such review and the appropriate forum with which to file. 5 U.S.C. § 7703(b). If you wish to seek review of this final decision, you should immediately review the law applicable to your claims and carefully follow all filing time limits and requirements. Failure to file within the applicable time limit may result in the dismissal of your case by your chosen forum.

Please read carefully each of the three main possible choices of review below to decide which one applies to your particular case. If you have questions about whether a particular forum is the appropriate one to review your case, you should contact that forum for more information.
